Curbside Composting Comes to the Chippewa Valley

Earthbound Environmental Solutions, LLC, a woman owned business, is pleased to announce the successful execution of its curbside organics recycling program in Eau Claire County, Wisconsin. The program features a unique offering of services including; curbside organics and yard waste recycling, traditional recycling, and refuse collection.

Already, Earthbound is being recognized as an innovator in the industry; offering dynamic services and implementing new technologies and solutions to meet the needs of an ever changing community. The culmination of four years spent addressing critical areas such as; exploratory and program implementation research, public engagement, and infrastructure development, has enabled community members to effortlessly switch to this first of its kind service in the area.

Earthbound's services are affordable for everyone and mirror current weekly pick up practices. Subscribers maintain the same day of service, the same number of curbside containers, are provided a free starter supply of compostable bags, and impact our community's environment through curbside organics recycling.

Integral to the Earthbound model is the operation of a compost site, where diverted material is processed for the purposes of making nutrient rich compost. This site utilizes specialized equipment, but embraces a minimal technology approach to compliment similar area businesses and agricultural activities the area is known for.

Earthbound's mission is to develop opportunities to creatively shape and enrich the communities and environments we thrive in. Earthbound will make significant environmental advancements through its organic waste recycling program. Earthbound will also make significant advancements in the employment arena for community members of all abilities.

Earthbound believes these advancements will create a more robust workforce and further develop outlying employment pool resources. Earthbound will work to strategically create meaningful employment opportunities for people with disabilities and other community member populations that are historically under employed. These opportunities will offer more than just a paycheck. These are opportunities for individual contribution, dignity through purchasing power, and community collaboration through progressive workforce and workplace integration.

Earthbound is pleased to be a community partner and welcomes the opportunity to connect in meaningful ways with any interested individual, group, or community leader.
